Equality and Diversity Policy:

dot-art is made up of dot-art Ltd, dot-art Services CIC and dot-art Training. It supports visual artists and champions art as an integral part of everyday life. Our vision is to enable everyone to enrich their lives through art.

dot-art recognises that certain people are discriminated against in our society. dot-art opposes all discrimination, whether it be based on race, gender, sexuality, disability, age, class, health, responsibility for dependants, political activity, nationality or religion. dot-art believes in working with people from all communities and backgrounds. dot-art will not tolerate discrimination within the organisation and through its work with young people from all communities, and it will take steps to challenge and reduce both direct and indirect discrimination in society around us.

dot-art seeks to remove discrimination and prejudice in every part of the organisation. It aims to create equality of opportunity for all its employees, volunteers and service users.

dot-art will attempt to make sure that all policies, procedures, and practices will address the needs of people in these excluded groups and remove barriers to inclusion.

To this end, within the framework of the law, we are committed to achieving and maintaining a workforce and service provision which broadly reflects the diversity of the communities in which we operate.

Every possible step will be taken to ensure that individuals are treated equally and fairly and that all decisions taken in recruitment, promotion, and career development are taken solely on objective related criteria.

dot-art recognises that all staff, volunteers and participants must ensure that no practices and procedures which are discriminatory, come into place.

Recruitment procedures for staff, volunteers and service users, must result in the selection of the most suitable individual in respect of experience, qualifications and status.

Members of staff involved in recruitment must be appropriately trained to ensure that an unbiased approach is maintained regardless of individual applicants' status.

All employees, volunteers and service users have a duty both morally and legally not to discriminate against any individuals or groups. Employees and freelancers have a personal responsibility for the practical application of dot-art's equal opportunities policy, which extends to the treatment of service users, volunteers, employees, management committee members, and members of the public.

dot-art will actively promote equal opportunities across all aspects of its work and will seek to ensure that, wherever possible, any agencies, private contractors, or suppliers it comes into contact with will adopt similar policies and practices.

Annually an analysis of equal opportunities will include the following:

- Monitoring of staff
- Monitoring of service users

Legal Obligations

Equal Opportunities and Discrimination (Equality Act 2010)

The new Equality Act came into force in October 2010 and replaces all previous equality legislation in England, Scotland and Wales – namely the Race Relations Act 1976, the Disability Discrimination Act 1995, the Sex Discrimination Act, the Equal Pay Act, the Employment Equality (Age) Regulations 2006, The Civil Partnership Act 2004, the Employment Equality Regulations 2003 (religions and belief and sexual orientation).

The Equality Act 2010 protected characteristics are:

Age, disability, gender reassignment, marriage and civil partnership, pregnancy and maternity, race, religion or belief sex and sexual orientation.

In valuing diversity dot-art is committed to go beyond the legal minimum regarding equality.

The Equality Act 2010 harmonises and strengthens and replaces most previous equality legislation. The following legislation is still relevant:

- The Human Rights Act 1998.
- The Work and Families Act 2006.
- Employment Equal Treatment Framework Directive 2000 (as amended).

Managing Director, Lucy Byrne, is responsible for the effective operation of the company's Equal Opportunities Policy. A copy will be given to all new members of staff, freelancers and volunteers.

If there is any doubt about appropriate treatment under the organisation's equal opportunities policy, employees, volunteers and service users should consult Managing Director Lucy Byrne.
